ATTORNEY GENERAL DAUGHERTY IS ACCUSED OF TELLING TALES OUT OF SCHOOL; STRIKES BACK AT CRITICS

St. Augustine, Fla., March 29.—A little Republican family quarrel swirled about President Harding today as critics of Attorney General Daugherty attempted to discredit him because of his announcement of Mr. Harding's candidacy for President in 1924.

Those forces closest to the President and antagonistic to Daugherty are circulating erroneous reports of a split between Mr. Harding and his Attorney General-campaign manager.

U. S. GOVERNMENT INTERCEDES FOR RUSSIAN PRIEST

Plea Handed to Soviet Representative at Berlin; Belgium Also Registers a Protest.

RESISTED SOVIET

Washington, March 29.—The plea of the United States Government that the Russian government rescind its order for the execution of Arch Bishop Zepia, head of the Roman Catholic Church in Russia and one of his assistants, was delivered to the Russian Ambassador in Berlin by American Ambassador Haughton.

Belgium Joins In Brussels, March 29.—Belgium today joined in the world's efforts to stay execution of a Catholic Arch Bishop of Petrograde and others condemned to die by a Russian Court for resistance to the Soviet system.

Villagers Protect Priest Breslau, March 29.—The entire community of Wischnitz aroused by an attempt to arrest the village priest or some petty offense banded themselves about the church yard today and fought off two hundred soldiers.

The village women linked themselves together by interbraiding their hair and tying their hands together, in this way they completely surrounded the church in a double line and resisted for hours any attempt of the one hundred twenty infantry men and eighty cavalrymen to penetrate it.

When finally a charge of cavalry crushed the women wall beneath the hoofs of the horses a second line formed about the door of the church hurling hot sand and salt in the eyes of the soldiers.

Fifty six women were arrested and many seriously injured. When the priest was at last brought forth the men took up the conflict and four policemen were wounded.

Valentino And Hudnut Marriage In Indiana Is Declared Illegal

Indianapolis, Ind., March 29.—Indiana officials paged Rudolph Valentino and Winifred Hudnut with the sad news that their recent marriage at Grand Point is illegal.

Mrs. Edward Franklin White, deputy attorney general, declared that as neither of the contracting parties had lived in Lake county where the ceremony was performed, issuance of the wedding license was not in accordance with the law.

State authorities will take no action, however, further than make public the opinion as handed down. The couple were recently married in Mexico in a ceremony not recognized by California law.

Earl Carnarvon Is Again In A Critical Condition From Poison Insect Bite

Cairo, March 29.—The Earl of Carnarvon, discoverer of the tomb of King Tut-ankhamen, is near death from blood poisoning today. His condition was diagnosed today as "extremely grave" following a relapse suffered yesterday afternoon.

A consultation of specialists has been called to devise new means of fighting the vice of the poison. Carnarvon was taken ill ten days ago and was thought improved until his relapse of yesterday. The infection is believed to have been incurred from the bite of an insect.

Clayton Norris, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Norris, who was operative upon at the Clearfield hospital yesterday, is coming along satisfactorily at this writing.

REVENUE RAISERS PUT FORTH BY LEGISLATORS ON LAST DAY

Harrisburg, March 28.—With the close of the final day for the introduction of bills the House, which is the legislative body in which all propositions must originate, now has before it in some form or other the proposals which will produce the added revenue the state must have during the next two years.

The manufacturers' tax, the luxury tax and many other revenue increasing measures have been delineated from time to time in this paper as they appeared. Today's flood of bills brought six new taxation measures, three of them dealing with gasoline and one bearing the administration label.

The ways and means committee, with the addition of these bills, now has before it measures that would bring the amount of money from revenue bills well above one hundred million dollars. Next week the committee will try to decide whether to tax tobacco or railroads, manufacturers or luxuries, gasoline or perfume, or luminous coal or sand gravel and cement, if the educational program is to be maintained.

Opinions differ on just how much money is needed to do that. The Governor holds the opinion that $17,800,000 more than the twenty-one million dollars specified by him in the budget must be raised for subsidies to schools under the Edmunds Act, provided that act is changed to place state aid payments on the basis of property valuations in the respective school districts instead of on population.

ALL WITNESSES IN KING MYSTERY WILL BE CALLED AGAIN

New York, March 28.—New evidence uncovered in recent developments of the Dorothy King murder prompted Assistant District Attorney Pecora to summon all witnesses to his office for questioning.

The examination of Draper M. Daugherty, son of the Attorney General and friend of the beautiful dancer, revealed certain points which necessitate a new investigation of all witnesses, Pecora stated.

Daugherty furnished the prosecutor with the name of the man who attempted to extort a position in the Department of Justice from him under threat of blackmail and which he defied because he was innocent.

John K. Mitchell, Philadelphia millionaire, another friend of the dancer, at whom a blackmail plot was aimed, will be summoned from his home where he has effected a reconciliation with his wife. He is expected here tomorrow.

BROPHY TO GIVE BATTLE TO LEWIS FOR PRESIDENCY

Lewis Policies to Be Assailed by Head of Dist. No. 2; Letters Show Wind Is Blowing.

LEWIS IS IN EUROPE

Johnstown, Pa., March 28.—A formidable candidate for the office of national president of the United Mine Workers of America has arisen in John Brophy, president of District No. 2 and chairman of the National Research Committee of the miners' organization. That John Lewis, the president, who is touring Europe studying mining conditions, will find a big political brawl brewing in the ranks of the miners' union when he returns home has been learned from the officials in this district.

As chairman of the National Research Committee Brophy has gained widespread prominence, and his candidacy for the presidency has been forwarded to such an extent that Acting President Philip Murray, of the international organization, has sent a letter to lesser mine union officials throughout the country containing information, it is said, designed to offset the rush to Brophy's support.

One of the charges in the Murray letter is that Mr. Brophy advocates a reduction in wages. This statement, however, Brophy has denied in a circular letter sent out from his home in Clearfield, in which he declares that District No. 2, of which he is head has consistently stood for a no-wage reduction policy. Lewis' supporters limit that the fight between Brophy and the present chief will be hot. Brophy expects to get strong support from the Middle West, where President Lewis has been at loggerheads with miners officials for several years.

The charge that he favors a wage reduction, Mr. Brophy avers, grew out of an unauthorized statement made by an attorney at a hearing on the railroad car situation during the last winter.

DIGNITARIES FROM THE WHOLE WORLD RESPECT BERNHARDT

Paris, March 28.—A solemn funeral cortege wound through Paris streets today carrying the body of beloved Sarah Bernhardt to its rest among the immortals at Pere La Chaise Cemetery.

Dignitaries of France, representatives of foreign governments, rich and poor, the stage that the deceased Sarah graced the country over, all were represented in the slow moving procession.

Until eleven o'clock the actors lay in state in the church of St. Fran de Sales. The outside was completely draped in long black and silver banners. Inside it was filled with high, in some spots, with flowers.

William C. Chase, a student at Dickinson College, is home to spend the Easter vacation with his father, J. Wallace Chase.

P. A. Helms has been on the sick list the past week.

TRINITY CHURCH SERVICE

Continued with increasing interest and attendance. Last night the largest company was present. Music and Scripture study were crisscrossed with the service of the Cross. How finely the fitted each other and in tandem he thought—"On His Way to the Cross and Hounded." And this was the lay members' night. Prayers were offered by lay men and women. It was a strong service, touching and uplifting.

Trinity has a large program for it is entirely devoted to The Lord's Supper. This night is the anniversary of the institution of the Holy Communion by the Lord Jesus Christ Himself after he had partaken of the Passover meal. These historic events are the most treasured experiences and deeds in the life of Jesus. His followers prize them above the price of rubies. The Methodists of this community will unite in celebrating both the anniversary and the Holy Communion, which their pastors will administer. Christian people, who love the Lord Jesus, will be welcomed to share in this night's worship.

Easter at Trinity will be featured with memorial service, a congregational tribute to the former pastor and members that died between March 1, 1922 and Feb. 28, 1923. The brief memorial is an impressive ceremony.

Best for Floors.

In the use of the hard plies and Douglas fir, quarter-sawn or edge-grain lumber is preferred for flooring because it will wear uniformly and not warp. But for interior finish, door panels and similar uses where figure is wanted the flat-sawn or slash grain, as it is often called, is preferred—American Forestry Magazine.

COMMUNITY NEWS

The Community folk class will meet in the High School gym this evening at 7:30. Members please note.

Community Service is able to announce that not only will there be the little Easter service on the Court house steps as announced but that the American Legion band has most kindly consented to help by turning out to accompany the children. There has been some very genuine doubt as to whether this venture could be carried through successfully so parents are asked to lend assistance in the matter of helping the children up and off and as many as can manage it to come and either be audience or swell the chorus. It will be very short in order that none will be late for Sunday School.

Community Service contributed enough fat chocolate Easter eggs to provide egg hunts of the second and third ward schools. The teachers at each school directed the festivities.

DANIEL HORN KILLED ON RAILROAD

DuBois, March 29.—Daniel W. Horn, a lifelong resident of this city, was instantly killed yesterday near Indiana when one of the cars which he was in the act of uncoupling bumped him, throwing him under the wheels, and the entire string of thirteen cars passed over his body. The crew of which he was a part was switching a number of cars onto the side track, when the accident happened. No one saw the accident, but it is believed by members of the crew that it happened as above stated.

The remains were immediately gathered up and taken to Indiana, where they were prepared for burial, and arrived in this city last evening. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

ODDS AND ENDS
AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

The Clearfield Gas Company, by virtue of a bill sponsored by State Senator William A. Wallace, was granted a legislative franchise for the erection of an artificial gas producing plant for Clearfield with the privilege of laying its gas lines in the streets of Clearfield, and work on same begun in 1873 or just fifty years ago. Work of erecting the plant was begun that year and street lights were about ready for installation by December of that year, because a perusal of the minutes of the Borough Council for Dec. 12, 1873, shows that at a meeting of the council on that date Councilman John M. Adams moved, seconded by A. I. Shaw "that the gas lamps be lighted at dark and put out at 11 o'clock until Feb. 1st 1874, and that C. P. McCullough be named as lamp lighter, he to purchase a ladder and present bill for same to council."

The move was evidently some hitch in the completion of the installation because the next entry in the minutes of Council relative to street lighting appeared in the record of the meeting of Jan. 9, 1874, when the minutes show "John McGaughey moved that Edward Passmore be appointed lamp lighter at 75 cents per night, the price to be paid when lamps are lighted." Mr. J. G. Hartwick then moved "that the lamps shall be lighted when the darkness of the night requires it, and they are to be extinguished at half past ten on week day nights and at half past nine on Sunday evenings."

In these days nobody was cut after these official retirement hours except the "very rough" or the "very tough."

The minutes of Jan. 23, 1874, show that Edward Passmore was granted an order for $10.25 "for thirteen nights and one burner," which would make the date of the first street lighting in Clearfield as Jan. 10, 1874.

On October 5, 1874, the Clearfield Gas Company was given its first payment for gas for street lighting, when an order in favor of the gas company for $128 was authorized to pay for gas supplied for 140 nights or to Sept. 1st 1874.

It might be well to add in passing, that while the science of street lighting has advanced "quite considerably," the price of same has easily kept step with the procession, as while gas street lamps cost less than $1 for one hundred and forty nights each present at light costs the Borough $62 per year, while the incandescent street lights cost $22.50 each.

We never knew why our "grape juice" friend Billy Bryan pulled up stakes and left Nebraska for Florida

Now we know, and here's the reason: Nineteen twenty-two goes down in municipal records as the wettest year in the history of Omaha. That announcement was made by Julius Stigge, statistical clerk in the office of the chief of police, who says more than 5,000 arrests for intoxication have been made in Omaha in the last twelve months. The nearest approach to this mark was in 1915, when the police "Jugged" 4,084 drunks, Stigge says. "Omaha had 300 saloons before Volsteadism," says the annual report of Stigge. "Now the city has 3,000—mostly in hip pockets."

Clearfield county people were very much exercised a few weeks ago regarding the condition of the county jail. It was said so bad compared to this one:

"What must be the worst prison in the world is described by an explorer who returned recently from Mongolia. Inside a double wall of wood is a space about 20 feet square, upon which open a number of tiny rooms into which light never penetrates. In these dungeons are piled wooden boxes, 4 feet long by 2 1/2 feet high. The coffins are the prisoners' cells."

The wretched captives have heavy chains about their necks, and their hands are manacled. They can neither sit erect nor lie at full length. Their food, whenever the jailer happens to remember it, is pushed through a 6 inch grating in the side of the coffins. In these awful surroundings prisoners are kept sometimes for life.

Not only do they suffer torments through being unable to use their limbs, but also they are quite unprotected from the cold, which often is intense. Only a Mongol could survive for a day.

"The Panhandle."

As commonly used in this part of the country, the phrase "the panhandle" usually refers to the north-west projection of Texas, though the name is also given to the narrow, wedge-shaped strip of land lying between Pennsylvania and Ohio, which forms part of the state of West Virginia.

Stair Climbing for Fat Men.

"Elevators are doing much to spoil the figures of residents of cities," declared an elderly southerner, according to the New York Sun. "If all the mechanical devices for dodging stairways could be put out of commission for even a week, waistlines would be reduced 10 per cent." "But think of the strain on their tempers," suggested a listener. "There is something to that," assented the other. "Perhaps it would be just as well, and less radical to bar riding of less than three floors for a time and gradually increase the number. It provokes me to see a fat man, a man who cannot sit up straight and see within two yards of his feet, wait two minutes for an elevator to take him up or down one floor."

DOCTORS WANTED

Mrs. Quillon Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her from an Operation

Muskegon, Michigan.—"After doctoring for eight or nine years with different physicians without any relief at all, they said at last that medicine would not teach my case and I should have an operation. I had heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and often saw it advertised in different papers where some women had suffered just as I did and got well and strong again by taking the Vegetable Compound. I decided to see what it would do for me, and before I had finished the fourth bottle I was much better, the weakness stopped, and the severe pains in my sides left me. I am now much stronger and do my own work and work in the factory besides. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound and give it all the praise."—Mrs. NELLIE QUILLON, 17 Morris St., Muskegon, Mich.

Women should heed such warning symptoms as bearing-down pains and weakness, for they indicate some female trouble, and a persistent and faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will seldom fail to help.

The bibulous inclined today worship the memory of one Mr. Wooner, author of the prohibition enforcement act that did everything but enforce. Under that near-dry law the fellow who could get his hooch into an automobile was perfectly safe. He was equally as safe with a dozen quart, packed away in his suit case.

Now, under this so-called Pinchot law, any officer who has any reason to believe you have a quart of hooch in your car or suit case can search either, providing said car or suit case is not safely smuggled away in the home, in which event he must get a warrant.

Today the air is full of the wails of the fellow who fears dire things for the common people. Think of it, he says, a state cop or a constable can stop your driver and take your bottle. Horrible, quoth he, your wife may be along and the fear of the law in uniform might suddenly cause her death.

There is just one way to keep from the stringent dry law making trouble for you and that is to quit carrying it in your car or suit case. That was the intent of the national prohibition act anyway. Why kick about this additional legislation?

The only fault anybody can find with the Pinchot law so far is that there are no convenient loopholes left as there were in the Wooner Act. Too many people want a dry law that they can evade with an automobile. Others want to do it by the suit case route.

What is sauce for the goose ought to be sauce for the gander and it looks like the Pinchot dry bill is food for the whole flock.

FLUNKING STUDENTS

Reports from the colleges indicate that a good many students are being sent home for failure to keep up with their studies. Some of these boys are rich men's sons whose prosperous circumstances tended to make them idle.

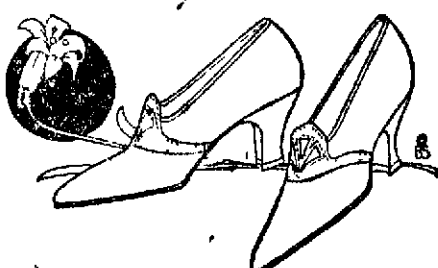

Many young fellows do not regard such an episode as anything to feel badly about. In a good many cases the boy may have done as well as he could, but he was not naturally a student and could not grasp the lessons. But in many other cases these fellows did not regard their studies as the main purpose of school or college.

They attended to make friends, participate in athletics and have a good time. They feel that they accomplished those ends or are well satisfied with what they achieved, even though they failed in the classroom.

It is an unhappy day for fathers and mothers when the boys and girls fail to keep up and are invited to resign. They sent those young people there hoping they would become men for life. The motto over a famous sea of translated from Latin runs to this effect: "Enter, boys, and here become men." Those who want to accomplish the end then had in mind a very necessary step to be taken, but they have dropped it, hoping that they would be forgiven. Their failure was through their own fault, but they have failed to do the thing that was committed to them and have made the wrong step on the journey of life.

But it is never too late to correct such a misstep. Flunking in school has been a shock that has aroused many young people from their indifference. It has stirred them to such a degree that they must fight for success themselves, and that they cannot attain it as the result of gifts handed down from parents.

The Denarius. The word denarius occurs a number of times in an English version of the New Testament, especially in the four Gospels, for instance, Matthew 20:2. "And when he had agreed with the labourers for a penny a day, he sent them into his vineyard." The coin to which the name penny is given, was the denarius, a Roman silver coin in circulation in the time of Our Lord and the Apostles. It was the principal silver coin then in use throughout the Roman Empire. From the parable of the laborers in the vineyard it would seem that a denarius was then the ordinary pay for a day's labor.

23 SERIES STUDEBAKER LIGHT-SIX TOURING CAR $975

Judged solely on what you yourself can see—its beauty of line and finish and its many refinements—the 23 series Studebaker Light-Six Touring Car will merit quick approval.

But go deeper than that. Fine appearance is only one of the essentials you want. Judge it on its hidden, vital qualities that make for long life, extra service and certainty of operation.

For example, the crankshaft and connecting rods are machined on all surfaces. This practice, which is followed exclusively by Studebaker in the low price field, virtually eliminates vibration.

The striking body is all steel, even to the framework. Seats are wide and deep and are set at the exact angle for most restful riding. The ten-inch cushions are upholstered in genuine leather. And there really is plenty of room for five without crowding.

The one-piece, rain-proof windshield provides unobstructed view of the road ahead. The cowl ventilator is opened or closed in a moment. Attractive cowl lights are set in the windshield base—and there are many other features.

The reputation of the Light-Six is firmly established. Every unit has proved its worth on the highways of the world. One hundred thousand owners have experienced its satisfaction in performance, durability, economy, comfort and convenience.

The name Studebaker stands for satisfaction and service.

Curwensville's Own Column

Mrs. Ralph Henderson, of New Milford, was in Curwensville yesterday and took a Penna. train enroute to California where she will join her husband who has been on the coast for some months.

Mrs. Ida Gartz, who has been spending several weeks with Curwensville friends, has gone to Philadelphia.

The Baptist Sabbath school children will give an Easter musical concert in the auditorium of that church Sunday. Several numbers on the program will be recitations and special selections by the choir.

Bessie Hunter was unfortunate in losing a much valued gold fountain pen, somewhere between Walnut and Locust streets. The lady will be greatly obliged to the finder if they will return it to her.

It was quietly whispered around in certain quarters yesterday that an effort would be made Saturday night to organize a branch of the Ku Klux Klan in Curwensville. Well, what not? A respectable law and order society would not prove a detriment to the quiet and good morals of a community. Although night hoisting and booze hoisting is not generally had in this town as some other villages we could name that would come under the ban of a Klan.

The lay-out map displayed in one of the post office windows seems to be a sort of a Chinese puzzle to many people who stop to view it and figure out the tracings for the proposed improvements. If this is what a landscape artist calls a blue print, the Lord in his alwise providence have mercy on the man who would make a black or yellow one.

Conrade Enos Bloom states that he is in a way accountable for the extra cold and chilly weather. He got his hair cut a week too soon, hence the sudden weather change.

Asa Gray in Debate.
 Gray had a logical mind and an eager temper. When a subject interested him, when he had espoused a cause, he was ready to debate, even to argue with much vehemence. Here is a pretty picture of such a friendly controversy, drawn by one who knew him well: "Both were excited and the doctor showed his exuberant about the room, sitting on the floor, tying down flat, but laughing and sending sparks out of his eyes, and playing his arguments and making his witty thrusts all the while." Gray with more concise self-reproach: "Most untidily, I fear, I fell into a wrangle with him directly. He even seemed to think us on the whole a bigoted set here in Cambridge—rather a novel view to us."—Gambel Bradford, in North American Review.

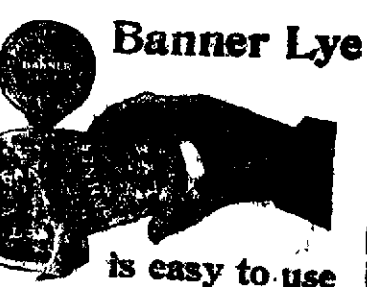

Royal Treasure, Securely Hidden.
 There is talk of draining the Wash and turning it into fertile farm lands. If that were done there is just a chance that the treasure of King John might be recovered, for we know that somewhere in that great sandy estuary lie his golden crown, his jewels and his treasure chests. There is another royal treasure lying hidden in some rocky chasm in the mountains of Wales. It is that of Edward II, which he hid in the year 1321 when flying from his victorious Queen Isabella through the wilds of Glamorganshire. So securely was it hidden that the search made for it was vain.—London Tit-Bits

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Menthosulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.
 Because of its germ-destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.
 You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Rowley Menthosulphur at any drug store.

Aching burning feet? MENTHOLIATUM relieves and refreshes

THE UNFAMILIAR TRIANGLE

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Janet begins between MICHAEL SAYERS, noted criminal, and SIR NORMAN GREYS, once of Scotland Yard, when Sayers' beautiful housemaid, JANET, saves him from Sir Norman by shooting dead an officer sent to arrest him. Janet becomes Sayers' wife and accomplice.

In numerous escapades Michael narrowly escapes capture by taking desperate chances. Because Greys recognizes many good qualities in Janet he deals with her leniently. After the Leeds bank robbery, Sayers is forced to flee the country. Returning to England at a later date, he again resumes command of his dangerous gang of criminals. Janet, somewhat tired of the game, gradually awakens to the fact that Michael is a hard taskmaster. She compares him with Sir Norman Greys.

Have I offended you in any way? I inquired. It seems to me that we are strangers.

She looked at me steadily. Her face, which normally must have been soft and pretty, had become hard and cold.

You are Janet Stanfield, are you not? she asked.

That is certainly my name, I admitted, more puzzled than ever.

She looked at me in doubting silence. I have seen your picture," she said solemnly.

Where? In New York. He carried it with him.

She turned deliberately away, as though determined not to enter into any further conversation.

I found her unobtainable to some extent a relief, but when I stepped on board again, my blessed peace of mind was gone.

I relapsed into my former frame of mind and endeavored to keep away from everyone.

Mr. Popple, however, refused to accept my plain hints. He dragged his chair over to my corner on deck.

"Mrs. Louise K. Martin—that lady's name," he informed me. "She comes from way out West, beyond Milwaukee. She is getting out at Marseilles."

"I had forgotten all about her," I replied mendaciously.

"I'd give her a wide berth if I were you," he advised. "Traveling about as much as I do, I've got kind of used to taking a look at people's expressions and the way she looked at you was real mean."

I declined to continue the conversation and announced my intention of going to bed. As I entered the stateroom or the way to my cabin, there was a curious sensation of conversation.

Mrs. Louise K. Martin, who was seated in an easy chair, very conspicuously dressed in black with a long rope of pearls around her neck, looked at me with steady intolerance.

I walked straight up to her chair. I knew that she had been saying things about me, and I was furious.

"Are you meeting my husband at Marseilles, Mrs. Martin?" I asked her.

I was sorry for the question directly the words had left my lips—sorry for her too, in a way. She turned deathly pale, and it looks could have killed. I should have been a dead woman. She made no answer at all. I waited for a moment and then passed on to my stateroom.

It must have been about ten o'clock that night when I heard a soft tapping at my door. I glanced at once who it was, and I guessed right. It was Mrs. Louise Martin, wrapped in a dressing gown and with slippers on her feet. She closed the door carefully, and she put her fingers to her lips.

"We must be careful," she whispered. "You were mad to speak of Michael openly."

"Of my husband?" She laughed contemptuously. "He married me years before you," she replied, "and another before either of us."

I turned away from her, that she should not see the hate in my face. Some conviction of this sort had been growing upon me of late.

When two women love the same man," Louise Martin continued, "they should forget everything when he is in danger. I don't love in your face," she went on. "Then why are you here?"

"I see no reason why I should discuss that or any other subject with you," I answered. "That as a matter of fact I had no idea that Michael was in Marseilles."

I thought that she would have struck me. The fire of unbelief blazed in her eyes.

What are you doing on this steamer then? she demanded.

I came for a holiday trip," I told her.

She looked a little toward me. In the unshaded light of the cabin her face seemed even almost aged.

"Listen," she said. "This is a matter of life or death for Michael. You heard through some one of his being in Marseilles. Tell me through whom."

"I swear that I had no idea he was there," I repeated.

"You fool!" she exclaimed. "Can't you see that you are probably following—that the police are making use of you?"

You are in the same position yourself—I reminded her.

Indeed I am not," she assured me earnestly. "I was born in Marseilles. I have traveled there repeatedly. I know every corner and stone of the place. It was I who taught Michael that it was the finest hiding-place in the world for the educated criminal. It was I who took him where he is now."

Our conversation was suddenly interrupted in a very unexpected fashion. My stewardess entered, with a thin blue strip in her hand.

"Wireless for you, Mrs. Soles," she announced, addressing me by the name under which I had booked my passage.

"For me?" I repeated incredulously. "There must be some mistake. Nobody knows that I am on board."

"It's Mrs. Soles, right enough," the stewardess assured me. "There's no one else of that name among the passengers."

I tore open the envelope. My companion watched me with glittering eyes. She could scarcely wait until the stewardess had departed.

"You liar!" she raged. "You see what you have done! You have laid a trail for the police to follow from London to Marseilles."

She poured out abuse. I heard nothing. My whole attention was fixed upon these few words staring at me from the telegraph form: "Domby 21st March Geneva Louise"

I felt her wrist suddenly grip mine. She read the message over my shoulder.

"Get the code," she whispered hoarsely. "Quick!"

"What code?" I demanded. "I don't know what you're talking about."

I suppose she must have been convinced at last, for she dropped my wrist and hurried to the door.

IMPORTANT TO MOTHERS

Scientists tell us that the human body runs as an engine runs—on fuel. As fat burns more readily than almost any other food—fat is a perfect fuel food—it produces energy to run the body and heat to keep it warm. Children, who are "going from morning until night" need more energy food than grown-ups—they need fat. But delicate children who need it most, frequently will not eat fat in its usual form. Practically all children will eat fat in the form of delicate

NUCOA

The Healthful Spread for Bread

Made from the rich fat of the white coconut meat and the purest of milk. Nucoa is not only non-injurious to the most delicate of digestions, but is helpful when animal fats cannot be eaten. A Spread made from coconut fat—as Nucoa—is made—is used exclusively in many famous hospitals for the treatment of stomach troubles and various forms of digestive disorders.

Fatty foods, however, are by no means the only foods a child needs. There must be food for growth, as has milk, which supplies the lime needed for building bone, sound teeth, etc. They need iron to make red blood—to be found in spinach and other vegetables, in eggs, raisins, etc. And they need fluorine for strong eyes—fluorine is one of the 16 vital food elements and is found in whole wheat products. And they need the wonderful properties to be found in oranges, tomatoes, carrots.

So the wise mother will give her children cereals with plenty of cream, a pint (at least) of milk a day, leafy vegetables, eggs and good bread spread with the energy food—Nucoa.

Cactus Responsible for Cochineal.

Among its other virtues, the cactus gives us the cochineal—the insect used for coloring. Loevenhook, in 1703, discovered that it was the female of an insect (Coccus Cacti), which never moved from a certain spot on the cactus, the male being the active member of the family, but colorless, and therefore useless. These insects are harvested three times during the dry season, being swept from the cacti into wide-mouthed bags with stiff brushes and killed in boiling water or hot steam, after which they are dried in the sun and put up in small packages for the market. In this thoroughly dried condition 70,000 insects are required to make a pound.

Gothie's Merit.

Gothie's merit lies in the perfect finish of all his creations; there are no strong seams to counterbalance the weak, no elaboration of some parts of the picture to make up for the sketchiness of others, no blotching, no padding, no feeling on details. Each character in his romances and dramas is treated, whether it appears, as though it were the chief character. This is Homer's manner; this is Shakespeare's. In the works of all great poets there are properly speaking, no secondary characters; each person of the drama is in his place the leading character of the scene.

Back to 1880

This is the 1880 silhouette—one of the six approved silhouettes for spring and summer. It's called the bottle silhouette, too, although the clinging drapes is hardly flaring enough to carry out the idea. The silhouette is often more pronounced when, instead of a drap, a large bow or ribbon is worn, as seen in the very low waist-

To Mend Enamel.

Take equal parts of fine coal dust, fine salt and putty. Knead well together and pack into the hole firmly. Put water into the mended article and stand on a warm stove for an hour. Wipe carefully and leave for a day before using. The mixture will form a cement as hard as the enamel, says a correspondent.

You should be polite to the young boys you meet. Perhaps some day one of them will be superintendent of the poorhouse of which you are an inmate. —Attorney Tribune.

Old Legend Concerning Fox.

The fox won his reputation for cunning owing to the legend that "when a fox is hungry, it lies down in a furrow of the field and covers itself partly with earth as though it had been long dead. Then the ravens and other rapacious birds come to devour it, at which it suddenly leaps up and tears them to pieces."

Character and Money.

Character is money; and according as the man earns or spends the money, money in turn becomes character. As money is the most evident power in the world's uses, so the use that he makes of money is often all that the world knows of a man. —Rulwer-Lytton.

Monkey in a Muff.

A monkey was used by a clever woman thief to commit a series of thefts from jewelers' shops in Paris. The creature was so tiny that she carried it in a big muff. Then while the mistress was standing at such distance from the counter as disarmed suspicion, the monkey would thrust out a long, spiderlike arm and snatch and conceal a ring or brooch. It was a shop detective, hidden in a gallery above and watching with the aid of reflecting mirrors, who at last detected the trick.

Good Government.

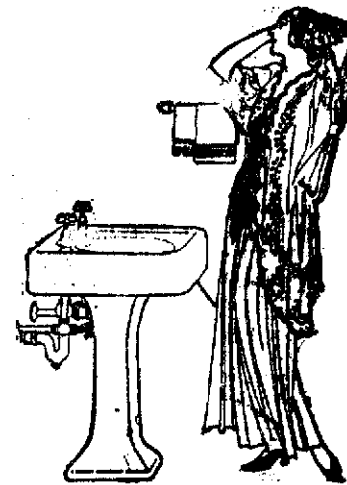

Governments can never be well administered, but where those entrusted make conscience of well discharging their places. —William Penn.

First Tea Advertisement.

The first advertisement of a certain everyday article which ever appeared in the English Press was published in the Mercury Pollutions on September 30th, 1678. It read:—"But excellent and by all Physicians approved China drink called by the Chinese Tcha, by other Nations Tay alias Tee, is sold at the Sultanees Head Coffee House in Sweetings Bents, by the Royal Exchange, London." This advertisement proves, by its mention of "coffee house," that the sister stimulant had got a start of tea as a beverage.

If Rheumatic Begin on Salts

Says We Must Keep Feet Dry, Avoid Exposure, Eat No Sweets.

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat no sweets of any kind for a while, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of Jad Salts occasionally to help keep down uric and toxic acids. Rheumatism is caused by poison toxins, called acids, which are generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin also absorb acids, freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather, the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, thus become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this poison, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism. At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacist about your ounces of Jad Salts, put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to remove the acids from the kidneys, thus helping to free the blood of these rheumatic toxins. Jad Salts is a pure, natural salt from the old world mines. It is a pure, conductive salt, and is not a poison, with excellent results. It is a salt, who are subject to rheumatism.

Tom Sims
SAYS--

Fashion Knives We Mercy.
In the days when gull wings and buttons were in demand for women's hats and when the law afforded no protection to the feathered tribes, they were slaughtered by thousands all along the coast. Millinery agents from New York would conduct expeditions, accompanied by expert skinners, to the breeding grounds of the seafowl and hire local gunmen to do the killing. One woman in a single season brought in 30,000 tern skins from Collier island, Virginia. More than 50,000 ternskins were collected in one year in the grounds of North and South Carol.

W at Babylon Handed Us.
The new system of dividing the day into 24 hours, invented by the Babylonians, was adopted by the Greeks and since then it has been handed down from generation to generation without any alteration, because nobody has dared to change it. Even the French revolutionists, who introduced a huge and elaborate series of innovations in the system of weights and measures, and went so far as to change the names and order of the days of the week, did not attempt to alter the day's division into 24 hours.

Alexander and the Knot.
Gordius, a peasant being chosen king of Phrygia, dedicated his wagon to Jupiter and fastened the yoke to a beam with a knot that no one could untie. Alexander the Great was told that "whoever untied the knot would reign over the whole East." "Well then," said the conqueror, "it is thus I perceive the fate." And so saying he cut the knot in two with his sword. This was 333 B. C. A Gordian knot is in common use a day or two.

Sexton of St. Stephen's
Was Actually Afraid
To Cross the Street

Harrisburg Man Would Tremble Like a Leaf From Nervousness and Was Often Seized With Dizzy Spells That Kept Him in Constant Danger.

HEALTH IS COMPLETELY RESTORED BY
DR. THACHER'S LIVER & BLOOD SYRUP

The many friends of Henry Stees, for thirty years the worthy Sexton of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Harrisburg, will be gratified to learn of his complete recovery to health as a result of taking Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup, the celebrated medicine that is accomplishing such remarkable results everywhere.

Mr. Stees, who lives at 142 Cranberry Ave., Harrisburg, Pa., is a retired member of Hope Fire Company No. 2, and is held in the highest esteem by all who know him.

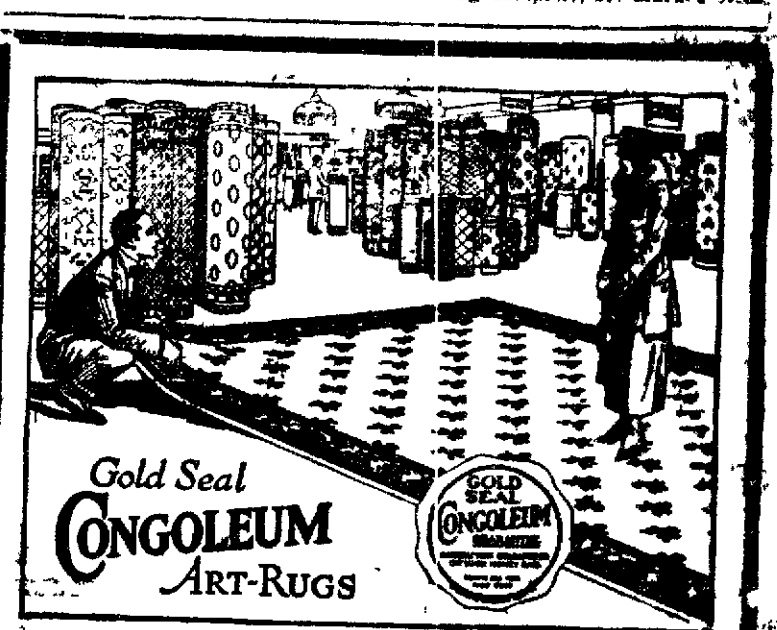

For the past five or six years Mr. Stees has been in a deplorable state of health, verging upon a nervous breakdown and when such people as he come out and publicly testify that Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup has made them well and strong again, the unusual merit of this medicine can no longer be doubted. But let Mr. Stees tell his story in his own words.

"Six years" says Mr. Stees "I have had a tired, dragging feeling, but made me unhappy and miserable. I was steadily losing in weight and strength, had no appetite and suffered constantly from constipation. Often when walking I would see spots before my eyes and would become dizzy. I was afraid to cross the street for fear I would be run over."

and I was so nervous at times I would shake like a leaf and just couldn't control myself.

"My tongue was always coated, I had awful headaches and my breath was so offensive I just dodged my friends to keep them from knowing it." "I was induced to try Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup by what I had heard about it, and a few doses made me feel so much better that I kept up all I had taken three bottles. My appetite is now just fine. I eat heartily of anything I want, those headaches are all gone. I never feel dizzy and nervous like I did before and am getting stronger and better every day. In fact I feel better today than I have in a long time, and I know it was nothing but Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup that relieved my troubles."

Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold by leading druggists. In Clearfield it is being featured by the Art Drug Company, 207 Market Street.

ATTORNEY GENERAL DAUGHERTY IS ACCUSED OF TELLING TALES OUT OF SCHOOL; STRIKES BACK AT CRITICS

St. Augustine, Fla., March 29.—A little Republican family quarrel swirled about President Harding today as critics of Attorney General Daugherty attempted to discredit him because of his announcement of Mr. Harding's candidacy for President in 1924.

Those forces closest to the President and antagonistic to Daugherty are circulating erroneous reports of a split between Mr. Harding and his Attorney General-campaign manager. Mr. Harding is considerably irritated at the dispute which these forces have started. Daugherty's enemies, however, have given out a story that Daugherty is about to issue a statement explaining his Miami announcement was entirely unofficial and without Mr. Harding's knowledge. Daugherty says he has no intention of making any such statement.

U. S. GOVERNMENT INTERCEDES FOR RUSSIAN PRIEST

Plea Handed to Soviet Representative at Berlin; Belgium Also Registers a Protest.

RESISTED SOVIET

Information which has reached here clearly indicates that the Bolsheviks do not intend to carry out their sentence of death immediately, if at all.

Villagers Protect Priest Breslau, March 29.—The entire community of Wischnitz aroused by an attempt to arrest the village priest or some petty offense banded themselves about the church yard today and fought off two hundred soldiers.

The village women linked themselves together by interlacing their hair and tying their hands together. In this way they completely surrounded the church in a double line and resisted for hours any attempt of the one hundred twenty infantry men and eighty cavalrymen to penetrate it.

When finally a charge of cavalry crushed the women wall beneath the hoofs of the horses a second line formed about the door of the church hurling hot sand and salt in the eyes of the soldiers.

Fifty six women were arrested and many seriously injured. When the priest was at last brought forth the men took up the conflict and four policemen were wounded.

BROPHY TO GIVE BATTLE TO LEWIS FOR PRESIDENCY

Lewis Policies to Be Assailed by Head of Dist. No. 2; Letters Show Wind Is Blowing.

LEWIS IS IN EUROPE

Johnstown, Pa., March 29.—A formidable candidate for the office of national president of the United Mine Workers of America has arisen in John Brophy, president of District No. 2 and chairman of the National Research Committee of the miners' organization. That John Lewis, the president, who is touring Europe studying mining conditions, will find a big political brawl brewing in the ranks of the miners' union when he returns home has been learned from the officials in this district.

As chairman of the National Research Committee Brophy has gained widespread prominence, and his candidacy for the presidency has been forwarded to such an extent that Acting President Philip Murray, of the international organization, has sent a letter to lesser mine union officials throughout the country containing information, it is said, designed to offset the rush to Brophy's support.

One of the charges in the Murray letter is that Mr. Brophy advocates a reduction in wages. This statement, however, Brophy has denied in a circular letter sent out from his home in Clearfield, in which he declares that District No. 2, of which he is head has consistently stood for a no-wage reduction policy. Lewis' supporters limit that the fight between Brophy and the present chief will be hot. Brophy expects to get strong support from the Middle West, where President Lewis has been at loggerheads with miners officials for several years.

The charge that he favors a wage reduction, Mr. Brophy avers, grew out of an unauthorized statement made by an attorney at a hearing on the railroad car situation during the last winter.

Until eleven o'clock the actors lay in state in the church of St. Fran de Sales. The outside was completely draped in long black and silver banners. Inside it was filled with high, in some spots, with flowers.

William C. Chase, a student at Dickinson College, is home to spend the Easter vacation with his father, J. Wallace Chase.

TRINITY CHURCH SERVICE

Continued with increasing interest and attendance. Last night the largest company was present. Music and Scripture study were crisscrossed with the service of the Cross. How finely the fitted each other and in tandem he thought—"On His Way to the Cross and Hounded." And this was the lay members' night. Prayers were offered by lay men and women. It was a strong service, touching and uplifting.

Trinity has a large program for it is entirely devoted to The Lord's Supper. This night is the anniversary of the institution of the Holy Communion by the Lord Jesus Christ Himself after he had partaken of the Passover meal. These historic events are the most treasured experiences and deeds in the life of Jesus. His followers prize them above the price of rubies. The members of this community will unite in celebrating both the anniversary and the Holy Communion, which their pastors will administer. Christian people, who love the Lord Jesus, will be welcomed to share in this night's worship.

Easter at Trinity will be featured with memorial service, a congregational tribute to the former pastor and members that died between March 1, 1922 and Feb. 28, 1923. The brief memorial is an impressive ceremony.

Best for Floors.

In the use of the hard plines and Douglas fir, quarter-sawn or edge-grain lumber is preferred for flooring because it will wear uniformly and not warp. But for interior finish, door panels and similar uses where figure is wanted the flat-sawn or slash grain, as it is often called, is preferred—American Forestry Magazine

COMMUNITY NEWS

The Community folk class will meet in the High School gym this evening at 7:30. Members please note.

Community Service is able to announce that not only will there be the little Easter service on the Court house steps as announced but that the American Legion band has most kindly consented to help by turning out to accompany the children. There has been some very genuine doubt as to whether this venture could be carried through successfully so parents are asked to lend assistance in the matter of helping the children up and off and as many as can manage it to come and either be audience or swell the chorus. It will be very short in order that none will be late for Sunday School.

Community Service contributed enough fat chocolate Easter eggs to provide egg hunts of the second and third ward schools. The teachers at each school directed the festivities.

DANIEL HORN KILLED ON RAILROAD

DuBois, March 29.—Daniel W. Horn, a lifelong resident of this city, was instantly killed yesterday near Indiana when one of the cars which he was in the act of uncoupling bumped him, throwing him under the wheels, and the entire string of thirteen cars passed over his body. The crew of which he was a part was switching a number of cars onto the side track, when the accident happened. No one saw the accident, but it is believed by members of the crew that it happened as above stated.

The remains were immediately gathered up and taken to Indiana, where they were prepared for burial, and arrived in this city last evening. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

ODDS AND ENDS
AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

The Clearfield Gas Company, by virtue of a bill sponsored by State Senator William A. Wallace, was granted a legislative franchise for the erection of an artificial gas producing plant for Clearfield with the privilege of laying its gas lines in the streets of Clearfield, and work on same begun in 1873 or just fifty years ago. Work of erecting the plant was begun that year and street lights were about ready for installation by December of that year, because a perusal of the minutes of the Borough Council for Dec. 12, 1873, shows that at a meeting of the council on that date Councilman John M. Adams moved, seconded by A. I. Shaw "that the gas lamps be lighted at dark and put out at 11 o'clock until Feb. 1st 1874, and that C. P. McCullough be named as lamp lighter, he to purchase a ladder and present bill for same to council."

The move was evidently some hitch in the completion of the installation because the next entry in the minutes of Council relative to street lighting appeared in the record of the meeting of Jan. 9, 1874, when the minutes show "John McGaughey moved that Edward Passmore be appointed lamp lighter at 75 cents per night, the price to be paid when lamps are lighted." Mr. J. G. Hartwick then moved "that the lamps shall be lighted when the darkness of the night requires it, and they are to be extinguished at half past ten on week day nights and at half past nine on Sunday evenings."

In these days nobody was cut after these official retirement hours except the "very rough" or the "very tough."

The minutes of Jan. 23, 1874, show that Edward Passmore was granted an order for $10.25 "for thirteen nights and one burner," which would make the date of the first street lighting in Clearfield as Jan. 10, 1874.

On October 5, 1874, the Clearfield Gas Company was given its first payment for gas for street lighting, when an order in favor of the gas company for $128 was authorized to pay for gas supplied for 140 nights or to Sept. 1st 1874.

It might be well to add in passing, that while the science of street lighting has advanced "quite considerably," the price of same has easily kept step with the procession, as while gas street lamps cost less than $1 for one hundred and forty nights each present at light costs the Borough $62 per year, while the incandescent street lights cost $22.50 each.

We never knew why our "grape juice" friend Billy Bryan pulled up stakes and left Nebraska for Florida

Now we know, and here's the reason: Nineteen twenty-two goes down in municipal records as the wettest year in the history of Omaha. That announcement was made by Julius Stigge, statistical clerk in the office of the chief of police, who says more than 5,000 arrests for intoxication have been made in Omaha in the last twelve months. The nearest approach to this mark was in 1915, when the police "jugged" 4,084 drunks, Stigge says. "Omaha had 300 saloons before Volsteadism," says the annual report of Stigge. "Now the city has 3,000—mostly in hip pockets."

Clearfield county people were very much exercised a few weeks ago regarding the condition of the county jail. It was said so bad compared to this one:

"What must be the worst prison in the world is described by an explorer who returned recently from Mongolia. Inside a double wall of wood is a space about 20 feet square, upon which open a number of tiny rooms into which light never penetrates. In these dungeons are piled wooden boxes, 4 feet long by 2 1/2 feet high. The coffins are the prisoners' cells."

The wretched captives have heavy chains about their necks, and their hands are manacled. They can neither sit erect nor lie at full length. Their food, whenever the jailer happens to remember it, is pushed through a 6 inch grating in the side of one of the coffins. In these awful surroundings prisoners are kept sometimes for life.

Not only do they suffer torments through being unable to use their limbs, but also they are quite unprotected from the cold, which often is intense. Only a Mongol could survive for a day.

"The Panhandle."

As commonly used in this part of the country, the phrase "the panhandle" usually refers to the north-west projection of Texas, though the name is also given to the narrow, wedge-shaped strip of land lying between Pennsylvania and Ohio, which forms part of the state of West Virginia.

Stair Climbing for Fat Men.

"Elevators are doing much to spoil the figures of residents of cities," declared an elderly southerner, according to the New York Sun. "If all the mechanical devices for dodging stairways could be put out of commission for even a week, waistlines would be reduced 10 per cent." "But think of the strain on their tempers," suggested a listener. "There is something to that," assented the other. "Perhaps it would be just as well, and less radical to bar riding of less than three floors for a time and gradually increase the number. It provokes me to see a fat man, a man who cannot sit up straight and see within two yards of his feet, wait two minutes for an elevator to take him up or down one floor."

Mrs. Quillon Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her from an Operation

Muskegon, Michigan.—"After doctoring for eight or nine years with different physicians without any relief at all, they said at last that medicine would not teach my case and I should have an operation. I had heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and often saw it advertised in different papers where some women had suffered just as I did and got well and strong again by taking the Vegetable Compound. I decided to see what it would do for me, and before I had finished the fourth bottle I was much better, the weakness stopped, and the severe pains in my sides left me. I am now much stronger and do my own work and work in the factory besides. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound and give it all the praise."—Mrs. NELLIE QUILLON, 17 Morris St., Muskegon, Mich.

Women should heed such warning symptoms as bearing-down pains and weakness, for they indicate some female trouble, and a persistent and faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will seldom fail to help.

Curwensville's Own Column

Mrs. Ralph Henderson, of New Milford, was in Curwensville yesterday and took a Penna. train enroute to California where she will join her husband who has been on the coast for some months.

Mrs. Ida Gartz, who has been spending several weeks with Curwensville friends, has gone to Philadelphia.

The Baptist Sabbath school children will give an Easter musical concert in the auditorium of that church Sunday. Several numbers on the program will be recitations and special selections by the choir.

Bessie Hunter was unfortunate in losing a much valued gold fountain pen, somewhere between Walnut and Locust streets. The lady will be greatly obliged to the finder if they will return it to her.

It was quietly whispered around in certain quarters yesterday that an effort would be made Saturday night to organize a branch of the Ku Klux Klan in Curwensville. Well, what not? A respectable law and order society would not prove a detriment to the quiet and good morals of a community. Although night hoisting and booze hoisting is not generally had in this town as some other villages we could name that would come under the ban of a Klan.

The lay-out map displayed in one of the post office windows seems to be a sort of a Chinese puzzle to many people who stop to view it and figure out the tracings for the proposed improvements. If this is what a landscape artist calls a blue print, the Lord in his alwise providence have mercy on the man who would make a black or yellow one.

Conrade Enos Bloom states that he is in a way accountable for the extra cold and chilly weather. He got his hair cut a week too soon, hence the sudden weather change.

Asa Gray in Debate.
 Gray had a logical mind and an eager temper. When a subject interested him, when he had espoused a cause, he was ready to debate, even to argue with much vehemence. Here is a pretty picture of such a friendly controversy, drawn by one who knew him well: "Both were excited and the doctor showed his exuberant about the room, sitting on the floor, tying down flat, but laughing and sending sparks out of his eyes, and playing his arguments and making his witty thrusts all the while." Gray with more concise self-reproach: "Most untidily, I fear, I fell into a wrangle with him directly. He even seemed to think us on the whole a bigoted set here in Cambridge—rather a novel view to us."—Gambel Bradford, in North American Review.

Royal Treasure, Securely Hidden.
 There is talk of draining the Wash and turning it into fertile farm lands. If that were done there is just a chance that the treasure of King John might be recovered, for we know that somewhere in that great sandy estuary lie his golden crown, his jewels and his treasure chests. There is another royal treasure lying hidden in some rocky chasm in the mountains of Wales. It is that of Edward II, which he hid in the year 1321 when flying from his victorious Queen Isabella through the wilds of Glamorganshire. So securely was it hidden that the search made for it was vain.—London Tit-Bits

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place. Because of its germ-destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness. You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Rowley Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.

THE UNFAMILIAR TRIANGLE

Janet begins between MICHAEL SAYERS, noted criminal, and SIR NORMAN GREYES, once of Scotland Yard, when Sayers' beautiful housemaid, JANET, saves him from Sir Norman by shooting dead an officer sent to arrest him. Janet becomes Sayers' wife and accomplice.

In numerous escapades Michael narrowly escapes capture by taking desperate chances. Because Greyes recognizes many good qualities in Janet he deals with her leniently. After the Leeds bank robbery, Sayers is forced to flee the country. Returning to England at a later date, he again resumes command of his dangerous gang of criminals. Janet, somewhat tired of the game, gradually awakens to the fact that Michael is a hard taskmaster. She compares him with Sir Norman Greyes.

THIS is how it all began. Janet, a girl of about 18, was a beautiful girl, and that wonderful third day of March.

We try to inform you that under the will of the late William Sayers, Esq., of 15, Victoria Street, you are entitled to a legacy of £250,000 of duty.

As the estate is so small, and the legacy is so large, we have been asked to put on a post office box, so that you may have it with a minimum of delay.

After a great deal of consideration, I have decided to put the legacy in a post office box, so that you may have it with a minimum of delay.

MR. POPPLE REFUSED TO ACCEPT MY PLAIN HINTS TO DRAGGED HIS CHAIR TO MY CORNER on board again, my blessed peace of mind was gone. I relapsed into my former frame of mind and endeavored to keep away from everyone.

Mr. Popple, however, refused to accept my plain hints. He dragged his chair over to my corner on deck.

"Mrs. Louise K. Martin—that lady's name," he informed me. "She comes from way out West, beyond Milwaukee. She is getting out at Marseilles."

"I had forgotten all about her," I replied mendaciously.

"I'd give her a wide berth if I were you," he advised. "Traveling about as much as I do, I've got kind of used to taking a look at people's expressions and the way she looked at you was real mean."

I declined to continue the conversation and announced my intention of going to bed. As I entered the music room or the way to my cabin, there was a curious sensation of conversation.

Mrs. Louise K. Martin who was seated in an easy chair with a long rope of pearls around her neck, looked at me with steady intolerance. I walked straight up to her chair. I knew that she had been saying things about me, and I was furious.

"Are you meeting my husband at Marseilles, Mrs. Martin?" I asked her.

I was sorry for the question directly the words had left my lips—sorry for her too, in a way. She turned deathly pale, and it looks could have killed. I should have been a dead woman. She made no answer at all. I waited for a moment and then passed on to my stateroom.

It must have been about ten o'clock that night when I heard a soft tapping at my door. I glanced at once who it was, and I guessed right. It was Mrs. Louise Martin, wrapped in a dressing gown and with slippers on her feet. She closed the door carefully, and she put her fingers to her lips.

"We must be careful," she whispered. "You were mad to speak of Michael openly."

"Of my husband?"

She laughed contemptuously. "He married me years before you," she replied, "and another before either of us."

I turned away from her, that she should not see the hate in my face. Some conviction of this sort had been growing upon me of late.

"When two women love the same man," Louise Martin continued, "they should forget everything when he is in danger. I don't love in your face," she went on. "Then why are you here?"

"I see no reason why I should discuss that or any other subject with you," I answered. "That as a matter of fact I had no idea that Michael was in Marseilles."

I thought that she would have struck me. The fire of unbelief blazed in her eyes.

What are you doing on this steamer then? she demanded. I came for a holiday trip," I told her.

She looked a little toward me. In the unshaded light of the cabin her face seemed even almost aged.

"Listen," she said. "This is a matter of life or death for Michael. You heard through some one of his being in Marseilles. Tell me through whom."

"I swear that I had no idea he was there," I repeated.

"You fool!" she exclaimed. "Can't you see that you are probably following—that the police are making use of you?"

"You are in the same position yourself," I reminded her.

Indeed I am not," she assured me earnestly. "I was born in Marseilles. I have traveled there repeatedly. I know every corner and stone of the place. It was I who taught Michael that it was the finest hiding-place in the world for the educated criminal. It was I who took him where he is now."

Our conversation was suddenly interrupted in a very unexpected fashion. My stewardess entered, with a thin blue strip in her hand.

"Wireless for you, Mrs. Soles," she announced, addressing me by the name under which I had booked my passage.

"For me?" I repeated incredulously. "There must be some mistake. Nobody knows that I am on board."

"It's Mrs. Soles, right enough," the stewardess assured me. "There's no one else of that name among the passengers."

I tore open the envelope. My companion watched me with glittering eyes. She could scarcely wait until the stewardess had departed.

"You liar!" she raged. "You see what you have done! You have laid a trail for the police to follow from London to Marseilles!"

She poured out abuse. I heard nothing. My whole attention was fixed upon these few words staring at me from the telegraph form: "Domby 21st March Geneva Louise"

I felt her wrist suddenly grip mine. She read the message over my shoulder.

"Get the code," she whispered hoarsely. "Quick!"

"What code?" I demanded. "I don't know what you're talking about."

I suppose she must have been convinced at last, for she dropped my wrist and hurried to the door.

The Values In The GIGANTIC REMOVAL SALE Still Hold All Through The Store

IMPORTANT TO MOTHERS

Scientists tell us that the human body runs as an engine runs—on fuel. As fat burns more readily than almost any other food—fat is a perfect fuel food—it produces energy to run the body and heat to keep it warm. Children, who are "going from morning until night" need more energy food than grown-ups—they need fat. But delicate children who need it most, frequently will not eat fat in its usual form. Practically all children will eat fat in the form of delicate

NUCOA

The Healthful Spread for Bread

Made from the rich fat of the white coconut meat and the purest of milk. Nucoa is not only non-injurious to the most delicate of digestions, but is helpful when animal fats cannot be eaten. A Spread made from coconut fat—as Nucoa—is made—is used exclusively in many famous hospitals for the treatment of stomach troubles and various forms of digestive disorders.

Fatty foods, however, are by no means the only foods a child needs. There must be food for growth, as has milk, which supplies the lime needed for building bone, sound teeth, etc. They need iron to make red blood—to be found in spinach and other vegetables, in eggs, raisins, etc. And they need fluorine for strong eyes—fluorine is one of the 16 vital food elements and is found in whole wheat products. And they need the wonderful properties to be found in oranges, tomatoes, carrots.

So the wise mother will give her children cereals with plenty of cream, a pint (at least) of milk a day, leafy vegetables, eggs and good bread spread with the energy food—Nucoa.

Cactus Responsible for Cochineal.

Among its other virtues, the cactus gives us the cochineal—the insect used for coloring. Loevenhook, in 1703, discovered that it was the female of an insect (Coccus Cacti), which never moved from a certain spot on the cactus, the male being the active member of the family, but colorless, and therefore useless. These insects are harvested three times during the dry season, being swept from the cacti into wide-mouthed bags with stiff brushes and killed in boiling water or hot steam, after which they are dried in the sun and put up in small packages for the market. In this thoroughly dried condition 70,000 insects are required to make a pound.

Goethe's Merit.

Goethe's merit lies in the perfect finish of all his creations; there are no strong seams to counterbalance the weak, no elaboration of some parts of the picture to make up for the sketchiness of others, no blotching, no padding, no feeling on details. Each character in his romances and dramas is treated, whenever it appears, as though it were the chief character. This is Homer's manner; this is Shakespeare's. In the works of all great poets there are properly speaking, no secondary characters; each person of the drama is in his place the leading character of his scene.

Back to 1880

This is the 1880 silhouette—one of the six approved silhouettes for spring and summer. It's called the bottle silhouette, too, although the clinging drapes is hardly flaring enough to carry out the idea. The silhouette is often more pronounced when, instead of a drap, a large bow or ribbon is worn, as seen in the very low waist-

To Mend Enamel.

Take equal parts of fine coal dust, fine salt and putty. Knead well together and pack into the hole firmly. Put water into the mended article and stand on a warm stove for an hour. Wipe carefully and leave for a day before using. The mixture will form a cement as hard as the enamel, says a correspondent.

Old Legend Concerning Fox.

The fox won his reputation for cunning owing to the legend that "when a fox is hungry, it lies down in a furrow of the field and covers itself partly with earth as though it had been long dead. Then the ravens and other rapacious birds come to devour it, at which it suddenly leaps up and tears them to pieces."

Character and Money.

Character is money; and according as the man earns or spends the money, money in turn becomes character. As money is the most evident power in the world's uses, so the use that he makes of money is often all that the world knows of a man. —Rulwer-Lytton.

Monkey in a Muff.

A monkey was used by a clever woman thief to commit a series of thefts from jewelers' shops in Paris. The creature was so tiny that she carried it in a big muff. Then while the mistress was standing at such distance from the counter as disarmed suspicion, the monkey would thrust out a long, spiderlike arm and snatch and conceal a ring or brooch. It was a shop detective, hidden in a gallery above and watching with the aid of reflecting mirrors, who at last detected the trick.

First Tea Advertisement.

The first advertisement of a certain everyday article which ever appeared in the English Press was published in the Mercury Pollutions on September 30th, 1678. It read:—"But excellent and by all Physicians approved China drink called by the Chinese Tcha, by other Nations Tay alias Tee, is sold at the Sultanees Head Coffee House in Sweetings Halls, by the Royal Exchange, London." This advertisement proves, by its mention of "coffee house," that the sister stimulant had got a start of tea as a beverage.

MANY people deny themselves the comfort of a hot drink with meals, because they find coffee and tea detrimental to health. For many, the drug element in coffee and tea irritates the nerves, retards digestion and often prevents natural, restful sleep.

If this fits your case, try Postum. This pure cereal beverage supplies all the pleasure and satisfaction that a hot mealtime drink can give—invigorating warmth, fine aroma and delicious flavor. And you can enjoy it in the full assurance that it cannot harm health.

Postum FOR HEALTH

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F.M. Edwards, 17 years of experience, has treated thousands of patients with a few vials of his "Clear Eyes" and "Ruddy Cheeks" and has found that it is the most effective remedy for all eye and skin troubles. These troubles are caused by the impurities of the liver and bowels, which are carried to the skin and eyes, causing a variety of skin and eye troubles, such as pimples, acne, and other eruptions. Dr. Edwards' "Clear Eyes" and "Ruddy Cheeks" are a natural substitute for the impurities of the liver and bowels, and they just keep them out of the system.

If Rheumatic Begin on Salts

Says We Must Keep Feet Dry, Avoid Exposure, Eat No Sweets.

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat no sweets of any kind for a while, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of Jad Salts occasionally to help keep down uric and toxic acids.

Rheumatism is caused by poison toxins, called acids, which are generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin also assist in the process of filtering the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather, the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, thus become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this poison, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about your ounces of Jad Salts, put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to remove the uric acid from the kidneys, thus helping to filter the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is a powerful purgative, from its blood-purifying properties, it gives, combined with its other properties, with excellent results. It is a safe, reliable, who are subject to

Tom Sims SAYS---

Fashion Knives We Merely.
In the days when gull wings and buttons were in demand for women's hats and when the law afforded no protection to the feathered tribes, they were slaughtered by thousands all along the coast. Millinery agents from New York would conduct expeditions, accompanied by expert skinners, to the breeding grounds of the seafowl and hire local gunmen to do the killing. One woman in a single season brought in 30,000 tern skins from Collier island, Virginia. More than 50,000 ternskins were collected in one year in the grounds of North and South Carol.

W at Babylon Handed Us.
The new system of dividing the day into 24 hours, invented by the Babylonians, was adopted by the Greeks and since then it has been handed down from generation to generation without any alteration, because nobody has dared to change it. Even the French revolutionists, who introduced a huge and elaborate series of innovations in the system of weights and measures, and went so far as to change the names and order of the days of the week, did not attempt to alter the day's division into 24 hours.

Alexander and the Knot.
Gordius, a peasant being chosen king of Phrygia, dedicated his wagon to Jupiter and fastened the yoke to a beam with a knot that no one could untie. Alexander the Great was told that "whoever untied the knot would reign over the whole East." "Well then," said the conqueror, "it is thus I perceive the fate." And so saying he cut the knot in twain with his sword. This was 336 B. C. A Gordian knot is in common use a day or two.

Sexton of St. Stephen's Was Actually Afraid To Cross the Street

Harrisburg Man Would Tremble Like a Leaf From Nervousness and Was Often Seized With Dizzy Spells That Kept Him in Constant Danger.

HEALTH IS COMPLETELY RESTORED BY
DR. THACHER'S LIVER & BLOOD SYRUP

The many friends of Henry Stees, for thirty years the worthy Sexton of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Harrisburg, will be gratified to learn of his complete recovery to health as a result of taking Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup, the celebrated medicine that is accomplishing such remarkable results everywhere.

Mr. Stees, who lives at 142 Cranberry Ave., Harrisburg, Pa., is a retired member of Hope Fire Company No. 2, and is held in the highest esteem by all who know him.

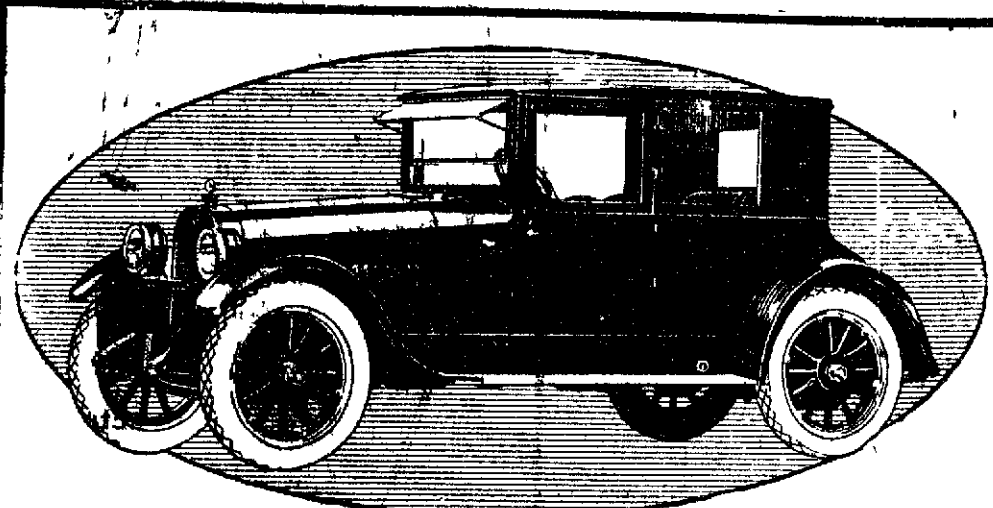

For the past five or six years Mr. Stees has been in a deplorable state of health, verging upon a nervous breakdown and when such people as he come out and publicly testify that Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup has made them well and strong again, the unusual merit of this medicine can no longer be doubted. But let Mr. Stees tell his story in his own words.

"Six years" says Mr. Stees "I have had a tired, dragging feeling, but made me unhappy and miserable. I was steadily losing in weight and strength, had no appetite and suffered constantly from constipation. Often when walking I would see spots before my eyes and would become dizzy. I was afraid to cross the street for fear I would be run over."

and I was so nervous at times I would shake like a leaf and just couldn't control myself.

"My tongue was always coated, had awful headaches and my breath was so offensive I just dodged my friends to keep them from knowing it." "I was induced to try Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup by what I had heard about it, and a few doses made me feel so much better that I kept up all I had taken three bottles. My appetite is now just fine. I eat heartily of anything I want, those headaches are all gone. I never feel dizzy and nervous like I did before and am getting stronger and better every day. In fact I feel better today than I have in a long time, and I know it was nothing but Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup that relieved my troubles."

Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold by leading druggists. In Clearfield it is being featured by the Art Drug Company, 207 Market Street.
